ANTIBACTERIAL

Shaws have been manufacturing fireclay sinks for over 100 years, using time honoured traditional methods and materials. Each handcrafted sink bears testament to the craftsmen who produce them.

Shaws sinks demonstrate the natural characteristics of fireclay ceramics and are created by a 'slip casting' process at our factory in the Lancashire town of Darwen. A mixture of clay and water is poured by hand into a porous mould. When the newly formed sinks are dry enough, craftsmen remove them from their moulds before hand finishing the sinks to create a smooth finish.

Following a gradual drying period of up to 40 hours, the sinks are then prepared with a ground coat before being glazed. Firing in specially designed kilns at temperatures of up to 1200 degrees centigrade completes this rigorous process. Whilst modern technology has improved manufacturing methods over the years, the principles of this handcrafted product remain the same.

Having taken two to three weeks to craft, each sink is proudly stamped with the impression of its maker and bears its own distinctive badge. Traditional craftsmanship is as important now as it was in 1897.

PLEASE NOTE: Our sink dimensions can vary by a plus or minus of 2%, as they are hand-made and shrink during firing. We therefore recommend that your kitchen fitter is aware of this and that no work surfaces or cabinets are cut before measuring your individual sink. Due to the handcrafted nature and weight of our sinks, we also recommend a specialist kitchen fitter installs your sink and that it is properly supported.
